Celebrating Women in Medicine

Medicine in the UK has traditionally been dominated by men. In fact, it was only in 1876 that women could legally become doctors. In 1893 the first female member of the Medico Psychological Association (now the Royal College of Psychiatrists), was Dr Eleonora Fleury who was born in Dublin in 1860; she was elected by 23 votes to 7, no mean achievement in a male-dominated age! To coincide with the centenary of the Medical Women’s Federation this event will celebrate the role of women in Psychiatry. Everyone is very welcome.

12:30-12:45 Registration & Refreshments

12:45-13:15 The changing role of women in Psychiatry
Dr Kate Lovett, Dean and Chief Academic Officer

13:15-13:45 Lunch

13:45-14:00 Welcome

14:00-14:45 Panel, Q&A
Drs Clare Adams, Neta Chada, Uzma Huda, Anne Montgomery & Paddy Moynihan

14:45-15:00 Refreshments

15:00-15:45 Women in psychiatry and the media
Dr Dearbhail Lewis, Consultant Psychiatrist

15:45-16:00 Close & New Members Reception – Everyone Welcome