

Section of Perinatal Psychiatry Annual Scientific Meeting

'Ethical dilemmas in treating maternal mental illness'

Friday, 26th November 2010
Hallam Conference Centre, London

'This year's Perinatal Section Annual Scientific Meeting - 'Ethical dilemmas in treating maternal mental illness' will focus on contentious issues commonly occurring in the management of mental illness in relation to childbearing.

Topics will include:

Dilemmas in prescribing in pregnancy and after childbirth
Balancing the needs of women and children in areas where mental illness compromises parenting
Effects of changes in maternity care on mentally ill parents
Legal aspects of parenting in mental illness.

The day will be of relevance to:

Adult, child and perinatal psychiatrists
Psychologists
Mental health nurses
Health visitors
Maternity staff caring for women with mental illness

Last year's event was very informative and a great success. We aim to bring you another great event this year.

The conference also provides an essential opportunity for networking with like minded colleagues interested in Perinatal psychiatry. We hope you will be able to join us.

Look out for the full details, programme and a registration form which will be available soon and uploaded at www.rcpsych.ac.uk/events.aspx

Check the website now to find out how to submit a poster and for information about the Daksha Emson Prize.
