Many thanks to Hwyl for permission to use the cover artwork. Hwyl is an art project run by Dementia Matters in Powys (DMiP) and Arts Alive Wales based at the Brecon War Memorial Hospital. The project focuses on working with elderly patients on hospital wards, with their families, carers, the ward staff and artists on a weekly basis.

With thanks to Rhiannon Davies (DMiP) and Tessa Waite (Arts Alive Wales).

Introduction to the appendices

This is the appendices for your local report. Your local report is in a separate document. The appendices present data from Round 3 of the National Audit of Dementia, both at a national level and for your hospital. Data for your hospital in Round 2 is also shown where applicable. When comparing Round 2 data with Round 3 data, please be aware that differences in sample sizes and slight wording changes to some questions, can affect results in both rounds. Therefore, conclusions made from comparing the data should be with caution. Hospitals with less than five returns for the carer or staff questionnaires have not received any data and returns of 5 to 9 questionnaires have not received demographic information. The table below shows how the data tables in the appendices are laid out and what information you can find in each cell.

Std no. [Type]	Question number and text		National audit Round 3: % Num/Den	Your hospital Round 3: % Num/Den	Your hospital Round 2: % Num/Den
Standard reference and type. Standards document can be found on the audit website .	Question number. Orange items in the casenote audit appendix show low inter-rater reliability.	Question wording as in tool.	The national audit refers to all hospitals from England and Wales that participated in the Round 3 audit.	Data for your hospital from Round 3.	If the same question or a similar question was asked in Round 2, we have provided your Round 2 response for comparison. The carer and staff questionnaires are new tools and therefore this column has been excluded in these appendices.
			We have provided the percentage 'yes' response (unless otherwise indicated) and the numerator/denominator. The denominator will change throughout the appendices, depending on whether questions were routed (not asked in some instances), 'N/A' responses were chosen (these have been excluded from the analyses), or where staff and carers did not respond.

For the organisational checklist, data from 199 hospitals are included in the national audit column (all the registered participants).

195 hospitals participated in the casenote audit, returning 10047 casenotes and this is shown in the national audit column. The national audit column for the casenote audit also shows the median and the inter quartile range for each question (where applicable). Question items which were found to have lower agreement in the inter-rater reliability analysis (see audit website) have been coloured orange.

196 hospitals returned carer questionnaires. Data from all questionnaires (4664) is presented in the carer questionnaire data tables in Appendix E.

198 hospitals returned staff questionnaires. Data from all questionnaires (14416) is presented in Appendix G. For some questionnaire items, the data for the two most positive answers have been combined, as well as being presented separately. This is provided both at a national level and for your hospital.

Appendix H: Staff suggestions for your hospital

The staff questionnaire included a question asking staff to make one suggestion on how their hospital could improve care and support provided to people with dementia. Below, all suggestions from staff at Northwick Park Hospital are provided.

Registered Nurses (Band 5 or 6)

If patient with dementia needs close supervision as they are at risk for falls and others might have aggressive behaviour, the system for providing 1:1 needs to be improved.

More training for dementia awareness to all staff.

Not moving patients from ward to ward late at night. Moving patients the least number of times from ward to ward. Providing appropriate extra staffing if patient requires extra care or 1:1.

Providing one to one support/ help while in hospital.

Staff nurse ratio should be improved. In order to provide individual attention, more nurses required.

Staff trained in the care and management of patients with dementia, should be provided to support inpatients with dementia. Some dementia patients may not recognise or like snacks/ finger foods when provided or may not remember to eat them. Inpatient dementia patients usually need extra support with eating and drinking. Extra staff should be provided to support patients with dementia.

To have a day room especially for dementia patients to come together and spend time with staff and other patients, some sort of engagement, have breakfast together.

Using volunteers and providing extra staff to help with feeding during mealtimes

Whenever a dementia patient is being difficult or needs close supervision, it is extremely difficult for the staff to deal with them, especially when there is limited/ no staff available to be with them all the time.

Registered Nurses (Band 7 or above)

Additional staff - this includes nurses and HCAs but also dementia specialist nurses - not just one - the trust currently does not have one to my knowledge. Linked to this, the dementia level 2 training, should be converted into eLearning to improve uptake. If the London North West Healthcare NHS Trust is really serious about John's Campaign, this needs to be backed with resources e.g. allowance to book extra staff when there are patients with dementia because they need time, and if staff are overstretched, they do not have the required time to spend with these patients. The ward facilities need an overhaul e.g. putting in 'bus stops', day rooms, sensory rooms, visitor facilities to enable them to take their loved to. It is not possible in this day and age to allow patients with dementia to walk around the ward as other patients will complain or may get frightened or upset. Limited menu choices. Menus need revision and regular freshening up to increase variety and attractiveness (smell, taste, presentation) of food and portion sizes. Need for wider drinks selection. Additional catering and ward staff required when there are patients with dementia, or on wards with a high proportion of patients with dementia. The trust needs to ensure that provision for patients with dementia is factored into any contracts with the private companies that provide our catering as this is something outside the control of the wards to avoid any issues. We know that there has to be value for money given the financial constraints on the NHS, but if a contract is given solely on the basis that it is cheaper this is a recipe for disaster as 'cheap things are never cheap'.

Create dementia friendly signage throughout the trust environment. For example, through the long corridors to the canteen, main hospital reception, Mark and Spencer and WHSmith shops and all the wards - not only the dementia friendly wards as patients with dementia are admitted to every ward on the trust due to bed crises.

Registered Nurses (Band 7 or above)

Dementia awareness training compliance for all clinical staff including doctors and allied healthcare professionals. Dementia friendly environment. Flexible visiting hours. Finger foods menu. Access to extra staff when required. Limit the number of moves of dementia patients between wards and also at night. Dementia champions.

Dementia specialist unit will be highly recommended. More training needed.

Elderly care wards must be designed to meet the functional and psychological needs of the patients. Wards are old with limited space. It should instead be like a well-made paediatric ward. Every ward should have a therapy area and patient dining area for patients and families with extra food and drinks. Staff nurses must be enabled to provide high quality care with the adequate number of nurses with 24/7 supernumerary support from the senior nurses.

Employing more dementia specialist nurses and doctors that specialise in dementia, who can work seven days a week and can come on the ward to assist nursing staff in practical ways to help them adequately meet the needs of patients with dementia. In addition there needs to be an easily accessible out of hours helpline to help nursing staff and doctors. They should also prioritise these patients e.g. emergency surgery cases/ elective surgery or investigations as the quicker these are done, then (barring any complications) it would help reduce length of inpatient hospital stays. As patients with Dementia need time, the Trust needs to employ more nursing staff (registered nurses & HCAs) because the current demands on nurses' time are huge and the trust and the department of health need to put more resources i.e. funding, information leaflets/ posters, more nursing staff and provide 7 days a week dementia specialist nurses. Unfortunately, in the real world it is not possible to allow patients with dementia to roam around the ward freely as they might 'scare' other patients and also they might risk harming themselves.

Improved staffing levels however, acknowledge this is an issue nationally within NHS. Have finger foods available between meals. Have televisions and music device at patients' bedsides. At present, there is only the day room, not always accessible for patients.

The ward designs and layouts are not dementia friendly, in fact they are the opposite, there needs to be some moderate works done to make us compliant. However, there is no funding for this and the wards must do it out of their budgets. I would dearly love to have an area that the individuals can access however, all areas have bedded patients in them. Clients from community placements that are transferred to the hospital as the areas are not managing, or their needs are becoming more complex, are increasing and these poor souls get a dreadful pathway. We are training dementia champions and have some very proactive members on the team however, when the pressure is on, these [patients] get a raw deal, patients are still transferred up to four times during their stay as opposed to being admitted directly to an appropriate area, and are moved at night more times than is acceptable.

Healthcare Assistants

There really is not enough time to interact with patients as there are always tasks that need to be prioritised (e.g. toileting, medicines).

Would like more training in understanding dementia.

Doctors

Dementia carer bundle.

Get more volunteers to help at mealtimes. Give more prominence to the dementia charities in the hospital by giving them a space. Currently MacMillan Cancer have a big prominent space allocated at the front of the hospital.

Allied Healthcare Professionals

Develop a risk feeding protocol for managing patients with dementia who are at risk of aspiration, which makes it easier for staff to make decisions for these patients.

Improved orientation and calmer environments to prevent confusion and distress.

More stimulation for people who are mobile e.g. dining together at meals. Time taken to sit down with people with dementia and explain what is going on. Volunteers to spend time with bedbound patients e.g. interact service (reading) or befrienders. Allow out of hours visiting.

Passports for patients with dementia detailing there likes/ dislikes/ preferences etc. to maximise patient centred care.

Provide a specialist dementia ward. Improved circulation and use of, person centred information.

Staff on dementia ward should have intensive training. More staffing.

The trust board needs to recognise that financial investment in improving care for people with dementia (and their close relatives), will result in rewards that will be seen in the short and longer term: cost savings associated with medication, length of stay and one to one support, reduced anxiety over CQC (care quality commission) visits, fewer complaints and competent, confident staff who are proud to provide compassionate, high quality care. Accommodating the needs and preferences of people with dementia requires recognition from the trust board that extra time and therefore resource is needed for this group of patients. The trust requires a change in culture that must be led from the board to recognise that we must invest time and resources to improve the care of people with dementia. In this way and by doing so, the trust will achieve other desirable outcomes e.g. reducing length of stay, use of antipsychotics, use of one to one nursing, overall cost of care and so on.

Students

By having group therapy sessions which may add a level of [illegible] for the patients. An alternative can be interactive sessions.

Train the staff how to deal a patient with dementia. Adequate staff is needed so that get more attention.

Therapy Assistants & Allied Healthcare Professional Assistants

Ward-based Administrators

No comments from ward-based administrators for your hospital.

Other / Unknown

A commitment not to move patients who are confused, unless it is clinically indicated.
