What is the Prescribing Observatory for Mental Health (POMH)?

The Prescribing Observatory for Mental Health (POMH) is based at the Royal College of Psychiatrists' Centre for Quality Improvement. We run national Quality Improvement Programmes (QIPs) open to all UK specialist mental health services.

Services that are members of POMH take part in audit-based QI programmes that focus on specific topics within mental health prescribing. We support clinical services to improve the quality of their prescribing practice and reduce risks associated with medicines management.

Wide participation in the clinical audits creates a picture of prescribing practice nationally. Member organisations are able to identify where their prescribing practice meets evidence-based standards along with areas for improvement, where local intervention may be warranted.

Example POMH report chart:

Documented eGFR and serum lithium tests conducted in the past year National and Example Trust subsamples, 2019 and 2023

How POMH supports clinicians and services

For more than fifteen years, active participation in POMH QI programmes has helped services in individual Trusts and nationally to improve the quality of prescribing, monitoring and review of psychotropic medication.

Participation can also help your organisation demonstrate it's meeting national requirements by:

- Providing evidence relevant to the local implementation of NICE guidelines and compliance with best practice standards
- Informing local QI initiatives
- Providing data for Trust Quality Accounts.
- Providing clinical staff with the opportunity to become more familiar with the audit process as a tool for quality improvement.

We provide:

Support to help clinical services measure practice against national standards and agreed best practice

Clear, customised reports for each QI programme that allow services to confidentially benchmark their prescribing practice against other services and the national sample

Change interventions where appropriate, specifically designed for individual QI programmes to support specialist mental health services improve local practice

Free webinars to members that include clinical background presentations from experts in the field

An online Members' Area providing easy access to POMH reports and other support materials.

Recent Quality Improvement Programme topics

The POMH team provides participants with all the help needed to measure practice in a QI programme area. We develop the data collection tools, services enter their data online, then we undertake the analysis.

2025 POMH QI programme topics:

- The use of clozapine
- Improving the quality of valproate prescribing in adult mental health services
- The use of medicines with anticholinergic (antimuscarinic) properties in older people's mental health services
